

My sister got my British mother to start transferring money into her account as of 2008. She then moved into my parent's house in Spain. My father was getting in the way, so she evicted him and soon after he passed away. She made my mother dependent on her for survival. To stop me from interfering she isolated my mother and stopped me from visiting. My sister coerced my mother to make a British will, where she was cited as the unique heiress. My sister used undue influence on my mother to donate her house to her a year later. My mother passed away in 2022 and I was disinherited.