

Annexe 117 – English

Carlos: Did you make another will?

Mom: I didn't do one at all.

Carlos: Is there a Spanish will?

Mom: Listen, I don't see.

Carlos: Did you ask a lawyer about this Spanish will?

Mom: If I had, I don't remember.

Carlos: So, you don't even know if there's a Spanish will that Dad made or that you made?

Mom: No idea.

Carlos: Then I'll tell you, there is a Spanish will. You never went to the notary to make the inheritance. Because under Spanish law, you have the usufruct of the house, and then Pedro, Maria, and I inherit after you. But if you signed another will, the British way, you can give everything to either Pedro or Maria. Are you aware of that?

Mom: Now that you mention it, yes.

Carlos: Now, that I tell you. Ok.
