Carlos: Do you know how much the work around the house cost?

Mom: What needed doing? I can't remember. It must have cost something, though.

Carlos: There were the gates, the walls, the garage, the new bathrooms.

Mom: Oh, I get the general idea.

Carlos: Do you know how much it cost in Euros?

Mom: No, I don't know.

Carlos: You don't know at all.

Mom: I have no idea.

Carlos: How do you think you paid for all the work here?

Mom: I don't know.

Carlos: You don't know with what money?

Mom: I think I figured it was with my own. But I don't know.

Carlos: With yours. Do you manage your bank accounts?

Mom: I don't know, darling.

Carlos: You don't know. Do you know how much money you have?

Mom: I don't think I have any.

Carlos: You think you don't have any? Then where did all that money come from?

Mom: From doing what kind of work, exactly?

Carlos: You built stairs, fences, the garage, the perimeter wall of the house.

Mom: That's right, yes
